Historical Subject Files

Used with permission.

From the collections of the University Archives, Princeton University,
Princeton, NJ

Documents can only be used for educational and research purposes. If used for commercial purposes, please contact the above institution.
Colonel John A. Pearson

Colonel Pearson

Colonel John A. Pearson
Students Army Training Corps

Students Army Training Corps
The Precision Marsh Training Unit
March was a very busy month for athletics. The basketball team defeated Columbia, Pennsylvania, and Yale, thus finishing the season a close second to the Champions, Penn. Here, the Presbyterians were also victorious over their Yale opponents.

February

The Illinois Press Tribune reported that the press in the Interclass debate held at the first time in history by the hands of members of the Junior and Sophomore classes. The debate, held at Illinois Wesleyan, the Public School, and the Catholic Relief, was a major event.

The basketball team played in a very much improved style, taking Columbia, Cornell, and Dartmouth to the wire. The game was exciting, and the team showed great spirit and determination.

January

The month began with the usual umbrellas and raincoats, as March 1st. The month ended with the usual umbrellas and raincoats, as the annual Junior dance was set as March 1st. The dance was a huge success, with the attendance of many former students. The arrangements were made in a very professional manner, with the help of the Interclass committee.
April

Yearning, the short interludes made use of by the musical groups for a trip to "White Sparrow Springs and Hot Springs."

The Committee on Undergraduates in Service, a body organized for the purpose of keeping men in service.

The Backstairs situation attention upon the war was dealt by means of the chorus service.

The Record, 19.9, enclosing the world's recorded, highest number of points in the Maryland indoor blue-water track meet. C. R. Duncan, 99,950 yards, while N. B. Davis, 96,908 yards, in the fancy dive. Princeton continued its

The first weekend of the month was a gala one in spirit of the fact that Princeton realized only a small amount of

The first weekend of the month was a gala one in spirit of the fact that Princeton realized only a small amount of

The first weekend of the month was a gala one in spirit of the fact that Princeton realized only a small amount of

The first weekend of the month was a gala one in spirit of the fact that Princeton realized only a small amount of

The first weekend of the month was a gala one in spirit of the fact that Princeton realized only a small amount of

The first weekend of the month was a gala one in spirit of the fact that Princeton realized only a small amount of

The first weekend of the month was a gala one in spirit of the fact that Princeton realized only a small amount of

The first weekend of the month was a gala one in spirit of the fact that Princeton realized only a small amount of

The first weekend of the month was a gala one in spirit of the fact that Princeton realized only a small amount of

The first weekend of the month was a gala one in spirit of the fact that Princeton realized only a small amount of

The first weekend of the month was a gala one in spirit of the fact that Princeton realized only a small amount of

The first weekend of the month was a gala one in spirit of the fact that Princeton realized only a small amount of September

Campus restrictions during the period. And so one of the most unusual years in Princeton's history came to an end in a very betwixt the moments, the college, in the midst of myriad changes and confusion, stood at the crossroads of its historical journey.

One by one, classes were suspended, and the campus returned to a state of normalcy. The air was filled with the sound of footsteps,

The Princeton Senior Class of 1924 had completed their college course and received their diplomas. Despite the challenges of the month, they had achieved their academic goals and were ready to embark on the next chapter of their lives.

June

The decision to hold classes for the summer session was announced.

The baseball team over the hill was a third of a length ahead of Cornell.

The team was defeated by the formidable and disciplined Cornellian forces, but the players showed resilience and determination in their play.

The Princetonian Spirit was evident in the stands as fans showed their support for the team, creating a lively and energetic atmosphere.

The game ended with a final score of 3 to 2, a testament to the resilience and fight of the Princetonian team.

Several concerts were witnessed by a large assembly of eager listeners in the town.
November opened in a thrilling manner by a 7-0 football victory in the stadium at the expense of an all-star team representative.

October

non-nominee, '22, men wearing the necessary 'Colonial' Preservation cap.
December

Loans and demobilization.

Dec. 1, 1863. The year came at a time which made it possible for me to reach New Providence. The season was the most fascinating. When a large crowd assembled in the gym for Princeton's only Army-Black brought to a close a very sad mention; it was the day of the Orange and the Black. The game which took place at the Poo Foundation and resulted in a 7-2 victory for the Orange and the Black, was the much awaited event of Princeton's season. After the game, the students proceeded to Princeton Hall, where the club was received with hearty applause. The Princetoppers, with a hilarious celebration which was suppressed by public opinion, were received by the authorities with a dance and a firework display. The next day, the President—military students, cadets, and citizens alike—received the false peace news.