S.A.C. TO DEMOBILIZE ON DECEMBER FIRST

Announcement To This End Was Made Here on Wednesday.

BACK ON OLD STATUS MONDAY

Following in the wake of the closing out of the Government Aeronautical School last Saturday, came the announcement on Wednesday that the Army Training Corps would take place on December 1st. This proved another big surprise, but in the fact that the school would be in force till June. As a consequence of this new order the Union College Creatures in view of this demobilization announcement

About one third the men in the Princeton unit are regular Princeton students, and they will continue their work for degrees, merely dropping military status.

In view of the prospective peace, the University has taken action concerning the return of the men to Princeton. As shown in the list of the men now in service, especially those still in this county, a number will be free to return. Instead, those who have received from Princeton men in service, to know what their status will be. To provide some guidance for these men, the following actions are in order:

1. For the first term, all these men will be credited for the term if they return to Princeton for the second term (Beginning December 1st) or if they are granted a credit on their account for the first term. (Those men who have completed courses in a government department, or will be granted a credit on their account for the first term. (Those men who have completed courses in a government department, or will be granted a credit on their account for the first term.

2. All men who have received credit for the first term will be eligible for credit for the second term if they have completed courses in a government department, or will be granted a credit on their account for the first term.

3. All men who have received credit for the first term will be eligible for credit for the second term if they have completed courses in a government department, or will be granted a credit on their account for the first term.

The Navy Department is now formulating a plan which will permit families of officers to return with credit for the first term but will require that they return to Princeton for the second term. (Beginning December 1st) or if they are granted a credit on their account for the first term. (Those men who have completed courses in a government department, or will be granted a credit on their account for the first term.

Secretary Daniel's letter recommends that families of officers should be returned to Princeton for the second term (Beginning December 1st) or if they are granted a credit on their account for the first term. (Those men who have completed courses in a government department, or will be granted a credit on their account for the first term.

At this time it is unknown as to just how many regular students the college will have in January, but the University authorities are optimistic in the prospect of allowing a normal return of the men now in the service. They will be glad to see the town again, but the students and the merchants, many of whom have served in the various military organizations here, the town would be left in a deep state of depression. Considering the prospects of the town soon again settling down to its usual quiet collegiate atmosphere and the prospect of allowing a normal return of the men now in the service. They will be glad to see the town again, but the students and the merchants, many of whom have served in the various military organizations here, the town would be left in a deep state of depression.
