Grip Shocks to All of State
Burke Seeking State Aid
Twin Cities in More Trouble Than Usually

BURKE, Nov. 29—The influenza epidemic is increasing in virulence and severity throughout the state, according to reports from many parts of the state, including Twin Cities, where the disease has been more prevalent than usual this year.

The Olin Dunlop, health officer of the state board of health, said that the disease is spreading rapidly and that he expects it to continue to do so. He also said that the situation is serious in many parts of the state, including Twin Cities, where the disease has been unusually prevalent.

The disease is also spreading rapidly in many other parts of the state, including the rural areas, where the situation is also serious. The Dunlop said that the situation is so serious that he is considering asking the state government for additional funds to help control the epidemic.

The Dunlop said that the disease is spreading rapidly in many parts of the state, including the rural areas, where the situation is also serious. The Dunlop said that the situation is so serious that he is considering asking the state government for additional funds to help control the epidemic.