BULLET

Library Unit, Vermont
The death of Dr. Chamber's Cerebrity occurred at his home in The Heights on November 8, 1870. He died where the nation was mourning. He had been a long-time resident of the Heights and was a prominent figure in the community. His death shocked the local news media and the nation. He was remembered as a great doctor and a beloved community leader. The street in front of his home was renamed in his honor. The news of his death was reported in the local newspapers and the national press. He had made significant contributions to the field of medicine and had been a leader in the fight against disease. His legacy lives on in the work of his beloved community.
