

PRISON WAS ENTIRELY FREE OF INFLUENZA

A health record of 100 per cent. has been maintained by Warden James Garman, of the Lehigh county prison, throught the influenza epidemic and of this achievement the head of the prison is justly proud. At all times a strict precaution against contagious or infectious diseases is maintained but during the recent spread of influenza, Warden Garman put on a double guard of trustees whose duties it was to report to him immediately the least sign of illness among the prisoners.

As soon as Dr. Royer placed the quarantine on the state, visiting at the jail was stopped and it was only yesterday that visiting prisoners was resumed. Many availed themselves of the opportunity to visit the institution. The next visiting day will be Wednesday of next week.

Considering the fact that he has more than 100 male and female prisoners under his care and that none of them were stricken with the malady, great credit is due Warden Garman. Every sanitary contrivance that could be installed when he assumed charge of the prison was adopted and to this measure the keeper feels that he is indebted to the splendid health record he has maintained not only before the epidemic but during its visitation in this city.
