

FACULTY HIT BY EPIDEMIC

Among those who have fallen victims of the common enemy, influenza, have been Dean Taft, Dr. William Roy Smith, Miss Kingsbury, Dr. Patch, and Miss Dunn.

Dr. Smith's history classes have been conducted in his absence by Mrs. Smith, and Miss Angie Kellogg has taken over most of Miss Kingsbury's academic work. Dr. Patch's English classes have been meeting with Dr. Chew's, and Miss Dunn's first year composition class has had to be content with only their division meetings.

COLLEGE WELL ISOLATED

Three Outside Speakers Fail to Come

CONSCRIPTION HELD UP

Quarantine Supreme

The college has been violently cut off from all infusions of outside life by the influenza epidemic. Quarantine regulations exclude outsiders from the halls and forbid meetings except Sunday night chapel. All college activities are practically at a standstill.

Three speakers have been prevented from coming because of the epidemic. Dr. Wise, who was to have preached last Sunday, was detained in New York on account of his wife's illness. Dr. Wood's Bible classes have had to be postponed because Dr. Wood is helping to fight the influenza in Washington. Professor Baldensperger will not be able to speak next Saturday evening on account of the quarantine. Even vespers, which was to have been in the cloisters, had to be given up last Sunday on account of rain. All Varsity hockey games with the cricket clubs have been indefinitely postponed.

Lack of Work Prevents Conscription

Conscription is held up because there is no sort of work available. The Community Centre is closed. No garments can be procured for sewing and mending. Students are not allowed to enter any building off campus, hence no Red Cross work can be done. Volunteers are needed by Miss Kingsbury for clerical work, but owing to her illness work cannot yet be assigned.

EVEN CLASSES WIN TENNIS SINGLES FINALS

Juniors and Freshmen drew first blood in the annual struggle for the all-around athletic championship last week when they took the first and second tennis team finals from 1921. Steady, rather than brilliant playing, characterized all the matches, which netted 1920 fifteen and 1922 ten points.

The scores were:

- Z. Boynton '20 vs. H. James '21, 8-6, 6-3.
 M. Carey '20 vs. K. Walker '21, 4-6, 7-5, 6-2.
 M. Dent '20 vs. W. Walter '21, 2-6, 4-6.
 Second team:
 V. Evans '21 vs. J. Palache '22, 2-6, 6-8.
 D. McBride '21 vs. O. Howard '22, 3-6, 2-6.
 J. Spurney '21 vs. A. Fountain '22, 8-6, 6-3.

DOOR WARD AND DIET PANTRY

Manned by Large and Efficient Staff

IS CARING FOR SEVENTY PATIENTS

An outdoor ward with twenty beds was opened last week at the Emergency Hospital, for serious pneumonia cases. Heavy wiring over the pipes, and fly-netting have been put up as a protection to delirious patients.

A second diet kitchen has been added on the second floor.

The medical office is under the supervision of an administration committee of the Main Line Medical Society, of which Dr. Branson is president. Mrs. Tenney Frank is the medical secretary.

The Volunteer Department is run by the Bryn Mawr Community Center. Hilda Smith '10 and Mary Peirce '12 are secretaries in the office.

The spare rooms in the garage across the street from the hospital, away from the noise and cries of the patients, are the sleeping quarters for the night nurses. Mrs. W. H. Welmer (G. R. Ford ex-'97), Mary Converse '98, Helen Hansell ex-'20, are nursing in the hospital.

Grace Albert '97, Mrs. Samuel Chew and her sister, Miss Lucy Marshal, Gertrude Mason, Fellow in English 1887-1888, Miss Rhoads, daughter of the former president of the college, and H. J. Robins '04 are dishwashers. Mrs. Dubach, mother of A. Dubach '19, is assistant in the diet kitchen. Laura Branson '15 is a kitchen cleaner.

Influenza Hospital

Mrs. Branson is "General" of the hospital and has had the work of setting up the wards. Mrs. Daniel Keller (Frances Branson ex-'19) has done some of the night ambulance driving and was also for a while in charge of the motor service. Thomas Branson, Jr., is an orderly and night ambulance driver.

Amy Sharpless ex-'01, daughter of the former president of Haverford College, paints signs and posters for the establishment.

The hospital has so far accommodated about seventy influenza patients.

The carpenter, who had been exceptionally busy on Friday, asked to be released a little early so that he might make the 250 crosses for funerals in the village, which he had promised as "his bit."

Appreciation for the assistance of Bryn Mawr students in getting the building ready is expressed by the Emergency Hospital in a letter to the Red Cross.

MANFUL MEASURES vs. FLU

As Seen in Campus Health Clubs

One direct and beneficial result of the "flu" epidemic has been the formation all over the campus of informal health clubs. Night owls are night owls no longer, and the country around Bryn Mawr fairly bristles with undergraduates taking their constitutionals.

Merion manfully drinks milk with all its meals. Bathrooms are hourly thronged with enthusiastic garglers. And sodium phosphate has become an overwhelmingly popular beverage. Scarcely a student but boasts a health program such as has hitherto been reserved for fanatics and fresh air fiends only.

Such is the havoc wrought by war!
