

Dressings Can Be Made in Village

Surgical dressings can be made now at the Village Red Cross, since quarantine is lifted. In the college rooms last week 50 comfort kits were filled, and 12 undershirts, 24 underdrawers, 12 O. D. shirts, and 25 pair of socks mended. No work was done the last three days of the week.

EMERGENCY HOSPITAL BECOMES CONVALESCENT HOME

Ten Babies and Many Women and Children Taken There

Several women, twenty children, and ten bottle babies, all from Philadelphia, have taken the place of the influenza patients at the Bryn Mawr Emergency Hospital, which has been converted into a convalescent home for the coming two months.

Financed by the Emergency Aid of Pennsylvania, it will be run entirely exclusive of medical aid, by the Community Center under the leadership of Mrs. Thomas F. Branson and Jane Smith '10. Mary Pierce '12 is the head of the Bureau for Volunteer Workers and has organized 158 volunteers.

Up to the present time all the cooking, cleaning and housework has been done by these volunteers, the hospital having to employ only one paid waitress.
