Commandant, 12th Naval District,
San Francisco, California.

SUBJECT: Sanitary inspection of Navy Yard, Mare Island, Calif.

1. Sanitary inspection made January 30, 1919, in compliance with official orders of January 20, 1919.
2. All barracks, camps, sick quarters, mess halls, galleys and heads are in excellent sanitary condition. On account of the relatively smaller personnel space in the barracks is abundant.
3. The water supply is still scanty but is sufficient for essential needs.
4. The prison is in excellent sanitary condition and the health of the inmates is very good.
5. The new detention barracks are practically complete but have not yet been equipped.
6. There have been no changes of sanitary importance at the Naval Hospital. The tent hospitals are no longer required.
7. The housing capacity of the Yard is:

(a) On a basis of 50 sq. feet of floor space per man:

Naval Training Camp	3769
Marine Post	1623
Total	5392

(b) On a basis of 450 cubic feet of air space per man:

Naval Training Camp	4167
Marine Post	1825
Total	5992

Tents in use:

Naval Training Camp:

9' x 9'	200
14' x 16'	440

Marine Post:

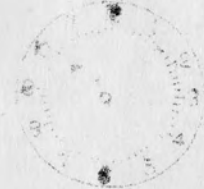

9' x 9'

1357

8. Health conditions are good. There has been a moderate recrudescence of influenza but the cases have been of milder type. The general use of masks has been continued on account of conditions in Vallejo, where there has been a sharp recurrence of the epidemic. There has been no unusual number of other infectious diseases during January.
