

HEALTH BOARD HOLDS MEETING

..No General Quarantine

The Committee on Communicable Diseases of the Board of Health held an open meeting, in connection with the pastors of the town, to discuss the latest epidemic of grip or influenza, now prevalent in Princeton. Dr. Brown and Dr. Jones, of the Rockefeller Institute, were present to act as experts, and Health Officer Margerum to furnish the data.

It was found that the disease was attacking children with every few exceptions, and was lighter than the previous outbreak. Some seventy-five cases are in town. Only ten cases of pneumonia, all light, had resulted.

The Board of Health has not instituted any general quarantine, but has left it to the pastors and parents of the children to use their judgment in keeping all children with symptoms of cold away from their playmates and seeing that all gatherings are conducted, by postponement or otherwise, in such a manner that the risks of contagion are reduced or eliminated.
